

Quarterly Impact Report — Spring 2026

This quarter, our work earned national recognition for measurable impact, visionary leadership, and uplifting family voices. From being featured in the 2026 High Impact Giving Toolkit to celebrating extraordinary care leaders and welcoming a new cohort of Parent Ambassadors nationwide, these milestones reflect meaningful stewardship of your support to ensure strong programs and drive progress across our systems of care.

Changent Recognized for High Impact

We are honored to be featured in the 2026 High Impact Giving Toolkit, published by the Center for High Impact Philanthropy at the University of Pennsylvania—a gold standard, nationally recognized resource highlighting organizations that create measurable, lasting change. Our inclusion in this prestigious guide was earned through a rigorous review of our research, outcomes data, leadership, cost-effectiveness, scalability, and proven practices that transform lives and communities.

This achievement belongs as much to you as to us. It is your vision, generosity, and belief in our mission that make our work possible. Because of your support, we are able to deliver innovative, evidence-driven solutions to families across the country. This recognition is a powerful affirmation: your philanthropy is not just generous; it is transformative. You are fueling change that meets the highest standards of impact, setting an inspiring example for what philanthropy can accomplish. Together, we are building a future filled with hope, opportunity, and enduring progress.

Honoring Visionary Leadership in Care

The Care Guild, a national initiative spotlighting leaders who are reimagining and humanizing care in America, recently honored Sharon Sprinkle, Eastern Nurse Consultation Director for Nurse-Family Partnership, and Rebecca Parilla, Clinical Director of Child First. The Care Guild elevates changemakers whose work is bold, equity-centered, and grounded in real outcomes for families and communities.

This recognition reflects the measurable impact of their leadership in advancing evidence-based, relationship-driven care. Your support plays an important role in sustaining and strengthening this work, helping ensure that the innovative, high-quality services delivered by Nurse-Family Partnership and Child First continue to grow and that both programs serve as models for compassionate, effective care nationwide.

Changent Parent Ambassadors: Advancing Family Leadership Nationwide

At Changent, we know that family voices are a powerful force for systems change. Our Parent Ambassador program equips graduates of NFP and Child First with advocacy training, storytelling platforms, and opportunities to connect directly with policymakers — ensuring that decisions about maternal and child health are informed by lived experience. Through public speaking, legislative engagement, and community leadership, Parent Ambassadors elevate the importance of evidence-based home visiting and two-generation health and mental health support, influencing conversations at both state and national levels and strengthening outcomes for families across the country.

We are proud to welcome this year's cohort: Abbie Bennett (Indiana); Julia Boyd (California); Laura Covington (North Carolina); Amanda Fernandez (Florida); Katie Ickes (Pennsylvania); Itsy Justin (New York); Ashleigh Ligon (Washington); Zaeva Mercado (Texas); Octavia Quarles (Tennessee); Bianchi Torres (Pennsylvania); Monique Vasquez (Michigan); and Shemya Wilson (Ohio).

Together, they represent the strength, resilience, and leadership that emerge when families are not only served by programs but also empowered to help shape the future of care. Read more about this remarkable group on our website.
